

Cultural Awareness: Introduction to Cultural Safety online course: Terms and Conditions

By continuing to register for AIDA's online Cultural Awareness: Introduction to Cultural Safety course you accept and agree to the following terms and conditions:

- All Intellectual Property rights in the course content and materials remains vested at all times in AIDA;
- You may only use AIDA's material, including the course content, for non-commercial purposes. You may not share, disseminate or sub-licence the material without the prior written consent of AIDA ; and
- You acknowledge that Indigenous people have the right to control, own and maintain their ICIP in accordance with Article 31 of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, and accept that the ownership of any ICIP will remain with the relevant traditional owners of such ICIP.

Definitions

Indigenous Cultural and Intellectual Property or ICIP means the rights of Indigenous people to their cultural heritage. Cultural heritage comprises of all objects, sites and knowledge, the nature or use of which has been transmitted or continues to be transmitted from generation to generation, and which is regarded as pertaining to a particular Indigenous group or its territory. The cultural heritage of Indigenous peoples is a living one and includes objects, knowledge, literary and artistic works which may be created in the future based on that heritage. Cultural heritage includes:

- literary, performing and artistic works (including songs, music, dances, stories, ceremonies, symbols, languages and designs);
- scientific, agricultural, technical and ecological knowledge (including cultigens, medicines and phenotypes of flora and fauna);
- all items of movable cultural property (including sacred and historically significant sites and burial grounds);
- documentation of Indigenous people's heritage in archives, film, photographs, videotape or audiotape in all forms of media.

Intellectual Property Rights means any and all intellectual and industrial property rights, whether subsisting now or in the future in Australia and anywhere in the world, including rights of any kind in:

- copyright;
 - design, patent, trademark or circuit layout (whether registered, unregistered or applied for);
 - trade, business, company or domain name;
 - know-how, trade secrets, inventions (whether patentable or not), processes; and
 - any other proprietary, licence or personal rights arising from intellectual activity in the business, industrial, scientific or artistic fields.
-